Layering candidates, not a fit guarantee. These picks use the brands' stated loose, oversized, slouchy or wide-sleeved cuts. Try with your own blazer; no hands-on fit testing was performed.

Budget bands refer to the coats shown, not to the brands overall.

High street

Up to $450

& Other Stories – Voluminous Belted Wool Coat

US $379

ROOM FOR LAYERS* · DEFINED WAIST

Fabric: 100% wool. Fully lined: 55% polyester, 45% rayon.

Fit: Loose fit; 116 cm in S. Belt and three concealed buttons.

Why choose it: The lowest-priced pure-wool option here, with a waist you can define and a cut worth trying over a blazer.

Before you buy: No insulating padding specified. Loose fit is not a guarantee that your blazer will fit.

& Other Stories – Long Wool Coat

US $449

LONG, STRAIGHT SILHOUETTE · LINED

Fabric: 77% wool, 23% polyamide. Lining: 54% polyester, 46% rayon.

Fit: Regular fit; 134 cm in S. Padded shoulders; double-breasted.

Why choose it: For a very long, straight silhouette with defined shoulders rather than a tied waist.

Before you buy: The 134 cm length needs checking against your height. The neckline is open.

High street

Up to $450

COS – Tailored Wool-Blend Double-Breasted Coat

US $449

SHAPING DARTS · STRUCTURED SHOULDERS

Fabric: 76% wool, 22% polyamide, 2% polyester. Body lining: 100% rayon; sleeve lining: 52% acetate, 48% rayon.

Fit: Regular fit; 53.07 in (134.8 cm) in US 6. Peak lapels, shaping darts and double-breasted button closure.

Why choose it: For a long, tailored silhouette with defined shoulders and shaping through the body, without a belt.

Before you buy: Check the long hem against your height. Regular fit needs trying over a blazer; no insulating padding specified.

Quince – Wool Cashmere Double-Breasted Slouch Coat

US $200

10% CASHMERE · ROOM FOR LAYERS*

Fabric: 90% wool, 10% cashmere. Fully lined in polyester twill.

Fit: Oversized, slouchy fit with notch lapels and a double-breasted button closure.

Why choose it: For a cashmere blend within the high-street budget, with a relaxed shape worth trying over a blazer.

Before you buy: This is a cashmere blend, not pure cashmere. No insulating padding specified; warmth has not been independently tested.

Premium

Over $450 to $1,200

Harris Wharf London – Belted Clutch Coat

US $1,095

ROOM FOR LAYERS* · DEFINED WAIST

Fabric: 100% virgin wool. Unlined; pressed wool with raw edges.

Fit: Long cut, dropped shoulder and wide sleeves. Detachable self-tie belt.

Why choose it: For generous sleeves and a belt that changes the shape: a more relaxed alternative to tailoring.

Before you buy: Unlined and secured with a belt; not the padded cold-weather option in this edit.

AFTERHOURS – Herringbone Oversized Wool Coat

US $654

HERRINGBONE TEXTURE · ROOM FOR LAYERS*

Fabric: Fabrication lists 100% wool; polyester lining. Description also says wool blend; confirm before buying.

Fit: One size. Listed bust 43 in, length 50 in; padded shoulders and back belt detail.

Why choose it: For a long, oversized menswear shape and visible texture, instead of another plain wool coat.

Before you buy: One size limits fit flexibility. Check garment measurements over your blazer; no insulating padding specified.

GOBI Cashmere – Cashmere Wrap Coat with Belt

US $1,059

100% CASHMERE · DEFINED WAIST

Fabric: 100% cashmere with cupro lining, according to the product specifications.

Fit: Relaxed, knee-length cut; wide notch lapels, self-tie belt and hidden button.

Why choose it: For pure cashmere and an adjustable waist below the luxury price band in this selection.

Before you buy: Midweight fabric, not a padded coat. A relaxed fit is worth trying over a blazer, but does not guarantee room.

Luxury

Over $1,200

Cinzia Rocca – Wool & Cashmere High-Collar Coat

US $1,287

10% CASHMERE · HIGH COLLAR

Fabric: 90% virgin wool, 10% cashmere. Fully lined in viscose.Fit: Regular, flared fit; 105 cm. Three hidden buttons plus a neck button.Why choose it: For cashmere in the blend and a neckline that can close higher, in a regular flared shape.Before you buy: Smooth lining, not specified padding. Regular set-in sleeves need checking over a blazer.View coat on the brand website

Harris Wharf London – Balmacaan with Quilted Lining

US $1,375

QUILTED PADDING · ROOM FOR LAYERS*

Fabric: 100% virgin wool. Cotton lining with polyester padding.Fit: Long oversized cut; raglan sleeves. Five buttons and a button-up collar.Why choose it: The clearest insulation-led choice here: actual padding, a closing collar and an oversized cut.Before you buy: This is a construction-based shortlist, not a tested temperature rating. Expect a deliberately roomy shape.View coat on the brand website

Luxury

Over $1,200

TOTEME – Signature Double Long Coat

US $1,680

10% CASHMERE · SLOUCHY SILHOUETTE

Fabric: 90% wool, 10% cashmere. Double-faced fabric.

Fit: Slouchy fit; open front and high side slits.

Why choose it: For a relaxed, architectural outline and layering potential rather than a closely fastened front.

Before you buy: Open front and high side slits: not the choice here for maximum coverage in wind.

View coat on the brand website

Cinzia Rocca – Pure Cashmere Maxi Trench

US $2,498

100% CASHMERE · DEFINED WAIST

Fabric: 100% cashmere. Fully lined in viscose.

Fit: Regular-loose, flared fit; 125 cm. Belt and four-button double-breasted closure.

Why choose it: For pure cashmere with an adjustable waist and a buttoned front, rather than an open draped coat.

Before you buy: Regular-loose is not fully oversized. Cashmere content alone does not establish winter warmth.

Luxury

Over $1,200

Max Mara – Manuela Icon Coat

US $3,790

100% CAMEL WOOL · DEFINED WAIST

Fabric: 100% camel wool. Lining: 100% viscose.

Fit: Straight fit; 115 cm. Kimono-cut sleeves, matching belt and lapel collar.

Why choose it: For the classic belted robe-coat silhouette, with camel wool rather than a cashmere blend.

Before you buy: The highest price in this edit does not mean the most insulation. Test the belted front over your layers.

Herno – Sable-Effect Wool and Nylon Ultralight Coat

US $1,895

DOWN PADDING · REMOVABLE BIB

Fabric: 100% virgin-wool main fabric; nylon lining. Filling: 90% down, 10% feather.

Fit: Regular fit; lapel collar, removable bib, buttons and a two-way zip.

Why choose it: For added insulation with the appearance of a wool coat. The removable bib adds coverage on colder days.

Before you buy: US listing marked pre-order when checked. No tested temperature rating; check the regular fit over your blazer.
